

Never feed these to your dog or cat

Keep these foods and plants out of reach. If your pet eats any of them, call your vet or a poison helpline right away, even if it seems fine.

FOOD

1 DOGS AND CATS

Chocolate, coffee and anything with caffeine. The darker the chocolate, the more dangerous it is, and baking chocolate and cocoa powder are the worst.

2 DOGS ABOVE ALL

Xylitol, a sweetener in sugar-free gum, candy, baked goods and some toothpaste. It can make blood sugar drop fast and damage the liver.

3 DOGS

Grapes and raisins, which can damage a dog's kidneys.

4 CATS AND DOGS

Onions, garlic and chives, raw or cooked. They damage red blood cells, and cats are even more sensitive than dogs.

5 DOGS

Macadamia nuts, which can cause weakness, shaking, vomiting and a high temperature.

6 DOGS AND CATS

Alcohol, and food made with it.

7 DOGS AND CATS

Raw bread dough. The yeast keeps rising in the stomach and makes alcohol there.

8 DOGS AND CATS

Bones from the table, which can cause choking or get stuck in the gut.

PLANTS

9 CATS

Lilies and daylilies can kill a cat. Every part is poisonous, even the pollen and the water in the vase.

10 DOGS AND CATS

Sago palm. Every part is poisonous, and the seeds most of all.

11 DOGS AND CATS

Tulip bulbs, azaleas, oleander, lily of the valley and autumn crocus.

At Halloween

- Keep the candy bowl out of reach. Chocolate and sugar-free candy with xylitol are the biggest dangers, and raisins are too.
- Candy wrappers can block a cat's gut if they are swallowed.
- Glow sticks taste bitter and make pets drool, but they are not likely to be harmful.
- Keep candles and lit pumpkins out of reach. A pet can knock them over, and kittens can get burned.
- A costume must let your pet move, see and breathe freely, with no small parts to chew off. Don't leave a pet in a costume alone.

If your pet ate any of these

Call your vet, or a poison helpline that is open 24 hours:
ASPCA Animal Poison Control Center: (888) 426-4435.
A consultation fee may apply.

Pet Poison Helpline: (855) 764-7661. The fee is $89 per case.

Have the package or a photo of the plant with you when you call.
